

Promises Made. Promises Kept.

“By investing in this hospital, CHS has improved both our quality and profitability.”

Jennersville Regional Hospital
West Grove, Pennsylvania

I chose to join the medical staff at Jennersville Regional in 2002 because the hospital’s parent company, Community Health Systems (CHS), had just made a significant investment in the imaging and radiology services. The capabilities of the department attracted me and helped in the recruitment of several other highly trained medical professionals.

Though we’re a fairly small hospital, we’re able to care for our patients with some of the most advanced diagnostic equipment available, such as a high field MRI, multidetector CT scanner and dual head nuclear camera. We’re utilizing digital fluoroscopy, have access to a mobile PET scanner and recently added stereotactic breast biopsy.

In the past three years our radiology volumes have increased dramatically: interventional procedures are up 90 percent, CT scans have increased 75 percent and our nuclear medicine volumes have doubled.

By investing in this hospital, CHS has improved our quality and our profitability. We can now make regular improvements in our equipment and services—attracting more physicians and serving more patients.
